

What can I grow in my Les Verts Living indoor garden?

We're indoor growers, too – and for the past 5+ years have been testing and experimenting with different crops and varieties.

We've grown and evaluated nearly:

- 40 different head lettuces
- 27 types of herbs
- 20 different leafy greens
- Over a dozen fruiting vegetables

We've selected the perfect plants for production in our systems to take the guesswork out of growing for you.

Year-round indoor garden recommendations

Living Lettuce

Green Romaine-type
Green Summer Crisp
Red Butterhead
Red Oakleaf

Micro/Baby Greens

Gourmet Microgreens
Premium Baby Leaf Lettuce
Zesty Baby Asian Greens

Herbs

Compact Genovese Basil
Fernleaf Dill
Flatleaf Parsley

Tomatoes / Peppers

NEW!
Little Yellow Dwarf Tomato
Little Red Dwarf Tomato
Little Red Dwarf Pepper

Check back often as we regularly add new seed products to our list.

Spring planting for your outdoor garden

Fruiting Vegetables

A wide range of tomatoes and peppers.

Herbs

Cilantro, parsley, basil, thyme, rosemary, sage, dill and many others.

Lettuces

Romaine, butterhead, crisphead, gem and a wide range of other leafy greens.

Flowers

Marigolds, zinnias, petunias, coleus, and larger seed varieties.

Vines

Cucumber, zucchini, squash, gourdes and a wide range of other melon crops.

Fruiting Crops

Strawberries.

Be sure to follow the instructions on your seed packaging to determine when to start your crops for outdoor growing.

Here are a few tips and tricks to help guide your decisions and planting techniques:

Will the mature plant fit in your Terrace Pro?

Though the top tier can be adjusted, you'll want to ensure that mature plants don't exceed 45 cm (18 in) in height when fully grown. You should also consider the amount of growing space the plant will take when mature. Some crops (like melons) will want to spread out, so keep that in mind when planning your production.

Understand the growth cycle

Are you growing from seed, from a cutting or from root stock? How your favourite plants start may dictate which growing media will work best, how much room your plants will need and the time it will take them to mature. Will your plants require transplanting and pollination? Be sure to factor these horticultural practices into your plan. Or contact us for advice on transplants and pollination.